The underlying fund does not buy equity warrants but may hold any it receives in connection with equities it owns. The Underlying Fund may also invest in exchange-traded convertible securities. The Underlying Fund may invest in China A-shares through Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect and through Shenzhen Hong Kong Stock Connect. The Underlying Fund may use derivatives for hedging and efficient portfolio management. KEY RISKS
WHAT ARE THE KEY RISKS OF THIS INVESTMENT? The value of the Underlying Fund and its dividends (if any) may rise or fall. The following key risk factors may cause you to lose some or all of your investment:	Refer to Paragraph 8 on Page 22 of the Underlying Fund's Singapore Prospectus for further information on risks.
Market and Credit Risks
You are exposed to market risk, particularly in the Asia Pacific (excluding Japan) markets. Prices of securities change daily, and can fall based on a variety of factors. The effects of market risk can be immediate or gradual, short-term or long-term, narrow or broad. You are exposed to equity risk. Equities involve higher risks than bonds or money market instruments. They can lose value rapidly and remain at low prices indefinitely. Equities of rapidly growing companies are highly sensitive to bad news as their value is based on high expectations for the future. Equities of companies that appear to be priced below true value may continue to be undervalued. Equities of a company going through bankruptcy or other financial restructuring may lose most or all of their value. Small / mid-size companies are at greater risk of long-term or permanent setbacks due to fewer financial resources, shorter operating histories and less diverse business lines and their equities are more volatile than those of larger companies. Where hedging is successful, it eliminates both opportunities for gain and risks of loss.

You are exposed to emerging market risk.

Emerging markets involve higher risks than developed markets because of political, economic, or social instability, unfavourable changes in regulations and laws, excessive fees, trading costs or taxation, or outright seizure of assets, rules or practices that place outside investors at a disadvantage, incomplete, misleading, or inaccurate information about securities issuers, lack of standardised or reliable custody arrangements, lack of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, manipulation of market prices by large investors, arbitrary delays and unscheduled market closures and fraud and corruption.

You are exposed to counterparty risk.

The Underlying Fund suffers loss if a counterparty does not meet its obligations to the Underlying Fund. The Underlying Fund can try to recover loss by using any collateral associated with the obligation, but the value of collateral may be worth less than the cash or securities owned to the Underlying Fund. The Underlying Fund's ability to meet its own obligations to other counterparties may be affected. This could cause a delay in the processing of redemptions.

Liquidity Risks

You are exposed to liquidity risk.

The ILP Sub-Fund is not listed and you can redeem only on Business Days. There is no secondary market for the ILP Sub-Fund. All realisation requests should be submitted to Aviva Ltd.

Product-Specific Risks

You are exposed to derivative risks.

Derivatives transactions are complex and more volatile than traditional investments. They may involve losses that are significantly greater than the cost of the derivative. The pricing and volatility of some derivatives may diverge from the pricing or volatility of their underlying reference(s). OTC derivatives are less highly regulated than market-traded securities, and carry greater counterparty risk and liquidity risk. Exchange-traded derivatives have lower risk than OTC derivatives, but a suspension of trading in derivatives or in their underlying assets could make it impossible for a Underlying Fund to realise gains or avoid losses, which in turn causes a delay in handling redemptions of Shares.

You are exposed to currency risk.

Changes in currency exchange rates could reduce investment gains or increase investment losses. Exchange rates can change rapidly and unpredictably.

You are exposed to operational risks.

The Underlying Fund could suffer from losses through people, process and system failures.

You are exposed to securities lending risks.

There is a risk of collateral received yielding less than securities lent (for securities lending) by the Underlying Fund. The Underlying Fund may be exposed to risks similar to those associated with options or forward FDIs including counterparty default or delay in the return of securities, as well as operational risk, liquidity risk, custody risk and legal risk.
